Dear Dr. Jhon Hardy Purba

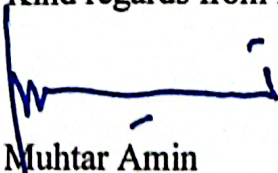

Editor in chief of Agro Bali Journal

I wish to submit an original research article entitled “Potential of Vegetable Commodities on Sustainable Agriculture Perspective: Evidence from Kolaka Regency Indonesia” for consideration by Agro Bali Journal. I confirm that this work is original and has not been published elsewhere, nor is it currently under consideration for publication elsewhere. In this paper, we report on development of vegetable commodities in Kolaka Regency, Indonesia based on basic and non-basic assessments using location quotient (LQ), dynamic location (DLQ) quotient and combination LQ and DLQ. This is significant because can be used as a guide for vegetable farmers and the government to develop vegetable commodities so that they can support the provision of vitamins and nutrition needs for consumption.

We believe that this manuscript is appropriate for publication by Agro Bali Journal because it according to the scope. This research is important because food security is one of the most important issues to discuss. The development of non-rice food commodities is something that must be done as an alternative to realizing food security. The novelty of this research is the first research focusing on vegetable products in the horticulture sub-sector.

Thank you for considering our manuscript for publication in Agro Bali Journal.

Kind regards from Indonesia

Muhtar Amin
